The 2008 American Indian Health Policy Symposium will provide practical information and policy solutions for anyone working in or interested in Indian health, including Tribal leaders, healthcare providers, academicians, researchers, community members and key agency personnel. The agenda features topics from Dr. Donald Warne's American Indian Health Policy course taught at the Sandra Day O'Connor College of Law at Arizona State University. The 2008 agenda is expanded from the well-received 2007 Symposium.

Also, join us for an exclusive screening of "Bad Sugar", an episode of Unnatural Causes: Is Inequality Making Us Sick? This documentary series focuses on the social determinants of health, and the "Bad Sugar" episode focuses on diabetes in Southwestern Tribes. The Episode features Dr. Donald Warne (Oglala Lakota) as seen on PBS, Discovery Health Channel and heard on Native America Calling.
